

Report for the visit Germany to have presentations

Young-Ho Lee (D2)

First of all, I really appreciate the initiative program for endowing me this great opportunities to make the oral presentation at Botanisch Institute at the university of Munich in Germany and to make the poster presentation at the Conferences on Magnetic Resonance in Biological Systems (ICMRBS).

I stayed in Munich for three nights and second day after getting to Munich I had oral presentation. As a matter of fact, before and after my presentation I had profound discussions on the collaboration between me and Prof. Joll who is P.I. at the lab I visited. The results of discussions and the response toward my presentation were so good. I have been recently thought over a concrete research plan for collaboration project.

I moved to Göttingen to take part in the ICMRBS and stayed totally for seven nights. Göttingen was famous for the street of university in Germany. People said that the Göttingen university I visited produced more than 40 persons who won the Nobel prize. How amazing it is! The contents of lectures of ICMRBS were both great and sound, moreover, the speakers who are the most well-known all over the world in the field of NMR all got together. I was happy to be able to talk with one of the most respectful scientists of mine and present my result.

I am sure that these all experiences make my viewpoint much larger and give room for looking back on my scientific life.
